During the first six months of 2019, the record-breaking surge of malware we saw last year has slowed — at least somewhat. SonicWall recorded 4.78 Billion* malware attacks through June, a 20% drop compared to the same time period last year.